Our Penny Wars is happening this week—How does Penny Wars Work?

Fill your classroom's jar with as many pennies as possible. All other coins and bills count against the pennies so "bomb" other classrooms with other coins and bills. Notes from Mrs. M & the Library!

There are different types of questions to ask if your child is reading fiction books or nonfiction books. The main questions to ask for fiction is about the plot or problem. Is the setting one place or many places? What character do you think you could be friends with and why.? Always showing interest in what your child is reading is a good way to show that you are interested in what they are doing and learning.

- Preschool: Read the story of What Snowmen do at night. We talked about all the things the snowmen did in the night. The 3 year old group will hear a story about a Snowy Day.
- Kindergarten: We made a book that goes along with the story The Night before a Snow Day.
- 1st Grade: Learning all the parts of a book
- 2nd Grade: Working with the dictionary. What it helps us with and why it is important.
- 3rd Grade: Reviewed the reasons why authors write books. They cut and pasted paragraphs under inform, persuade, and entertain.
- 4th Grade: Finishing up the science fiction book report. Sorting through some main ideas and put them in the right groups.
- 5/6 Grade: Read their fables to their friends and they helped to see if all the areas that we talked about were in their fable. Going to review the Dewey Decimal System next.
- 7/8 Grade: Finished their books and the report. Then picked out books to read.
